

Lecture Review

Yesterday, we covered the basics of what the class will be about. In particular, we focused on the importance of English (reading → listening → writing → speaking) in physics communication. Special attention was given to communicating research themes in simple Japanese and English terms. We finished with a review of the three writing concepts we will work on this term:

- Assess
- Explain
- Summarize

Relevant Websites

<http://www2.le.ac.uk/offices/ld/resources/writing/writing-resources/essay-terms>

For Next Class

For 13 April, please make sure to bring your laptop and journal notebook. I will ask each of you to write down, on the board, the theme of your research lab using as much English as possible. Afterwards, we will start work on our first simulation.

(If you have any problems accessing the above websites or videos, please let me know).